PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Pay It Forward!

This was Maj Gen "ChedBob" Chedister's theme at our 2007 Regional Professional Development Seminar luncheon. He asked us to find opportunities to do something meaningful for those who can't return the favor. He spoke of those who cared for him during his dramatic recovery from a near-fatal fall, but many of us immediately thought of how "ChedBob" had paid it forward to us via his many people-focused legacies such as the Alternate Work Schedule and the Air Armament Academy.

This month, we say farewell to a retiring chapter member who "paid it forward" in many ways during his FM career. I first met Paul Higgins in Jan 98, when I arrived here to begin my final active duty assignment. I knew of him because Irene Ward, my Phillips Lab teammate at Kirtland, was directing Automated Business Services System implementation there. Irene had worked closely with Paul, Leah Hodge, Joan Horn, and Libby Moseley to ensure that ABSS (formerly FEDS) was ready for AF-wide deployment. The rest is history. Paul and the ABSS team gave us phenomenal new capabilities.

Paul is a quiet professional who paid it forward to the rest of us. He was a primary architect of other systems and their application to the labs. JOCAS and AFCORP are part of his legacy. Paul served in countless key positions in our chapter over the years. No job was too small. When no one else could figure out how to reliably send luncheon announcements to 300+ people, Paul did. This chapter, the Air Force, and the nation are stronger because of his faithful service and the many ways he paid it forward.

Last month, I asked, "What will your legacy be?" In answering that question, ask yourself how you will pay it forward this year. Mentor a new intern. Help keep our web site current. Buy a new bike for a needy kid at Christmas. Sign up when Capt Spaulding sends volunteer requests for charity events.

Pay it forward!

Obama prohibits feds from texting while driving

By Emily Long, Government Executive – 1 Oct 2009

Obama administration on Thursday issued an executive order banning federal employees from text messaging while driving on government business.

"This order sends a very clear signal to the American public that distracted driving is dangerous and unacceptable," said Transportation Secretary Ray LaHood in a statement. "It shows that the federal government is leading by example."

Released at the end of a two-day distracted driving summit in Washington, the order applies to federal employees operating government-owned vehicles or driving privately owned vehicles on government business. It also bans the use of government-supplied electronic equipment while driving. Federal contractors are encouraged to implement similar restrictions.

Agencies will be required to outline specific steps to implement the ban, including disciplinary actions for employees caught texting while driving. The order directs agencies to evaluate existing driving safety education and awareness programs and consider expanding these efforts in coordination with a stricter texting policy.

The General Services Administration and the Office of Personnel Management will assist the Transportation Department in guiding the order's implementation and enforcement in agencies.

Texting while driving is illegal in 18 states and the District of Columbia.
